TEACHING ARRANGEMENT NOTICE

In view of the fact that the current air pollution situation has not improved, the school will continue to monitor changes in the Air Pollution Index (API). The API reading at 12:00 noon on 11 October 2026 (Sunday) will be used as the basis for determining the teaching arrangement for the following day.

If the Air Pollution Index exceeds 150 at that time, classes on 12 October 2026 (Monday) will be conducted online. All teachers and students are advised to take note of the latest notice issued by the school.

Hostel students are advised to bring home in advance the textbooks, assignments and other learning materials required for their classes, so that they can be used if classes are switched to online learning.

All teachers and students are encouraged to drink plenty of water, pay attention to their health, and wear masks when necessary. Please take appropriate precautionary measures to safeguard everyone's health and safety. Thank you for your cooperation.
